Stay at Home Vacations

Have you ever felt that to get your money's worth from your vacation you had to constantly stay busy and see everything? Having a stay at home vacation (stay-cation) gives you the freedom to do whatever you choose.

Unlike conventional vacations, after a staycation you will return to work refreshed and with a positive outlook. Staying at home for a vacation can be enormously restorative and transformative and fits much, much better into a lot of people's schedules and budgets.

If you do decide to skip travel for a staycation, it's easy to fall into sloth mode. So experts advise treating it similarly to a regular vacation, and that includes making plans.

It is so easy to just wake up and watch TV or be stuck glued to the computer all day, but if you force yourself to get out, you might find that you don't want to go back inside. That means setting guidelines or boundaries for yourself; if you want to do nothing for a week, that's OK, but it should be a choice.

Staying productive can actually help you refresh and recharge yourself. Too much downtime can actually drain energy.

Being close to home probably means you'll have e-mail access and you're physically close to work. But just because you can check your e-mail or scroll through your BlackBerry doesn't mean you should.

Staycation Tips

- Become a tourist inside or near your own home. Stay in a nearby hotel. Tell them you're a local, and they may give you a discount so that you'll recommend them to visiting friends or relatives
- Consult guidebooks to find nearby hot spots that you might be unfamiliar with.
- Try out new restaurants that you would normally over look.
- Browse your local paper and the internet to identify when the best cultural opportunities and events are happening.
- Treat yourself with a luxurious gift basket or delicious bottle of wine.

Reasons to Send a Corporate gift

There are many reasons why you might want to send a business gift.. Here are the most popular.

1. Thank You - This should be completely self explanatory
2. Apology - Oops, we messed up. Let us show you we can get it right next time.
3. Retirement - We are happy for you, but are REALLY going to miss you.....a lot.
4. Anniversary - Wow, you tolerated working with us for that long?
5. Get well - Sorry you broke your leg fetching everyone coffee, get well soon.
6. Sympathy - Seriously, we are sorry for your loss, and are here for any support you need.
7. New baby - Please don't forget about work after your little bundle arrives.
8. Just Married - Congratulations on getting them to actually say yes.
9. Personal Anniversary - Wow, you tolerated your spouse for that long!
10. New Hire - Ha, ha, you have no idea what you are in for.

Before you give a gift make sure that giving a gift will not be against company policy, some businesses will not allow their employees to accept certain gifts. Gift baskets are always the safest way to go, and are generally enjoyed by everyone in the office.
